ABOUT PULLING WITH MY PARENTS

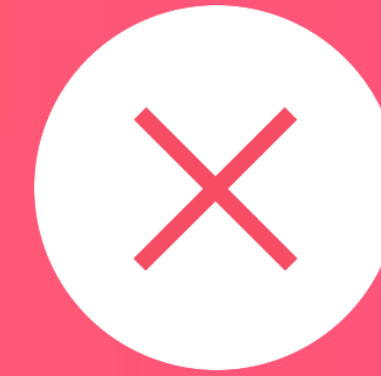

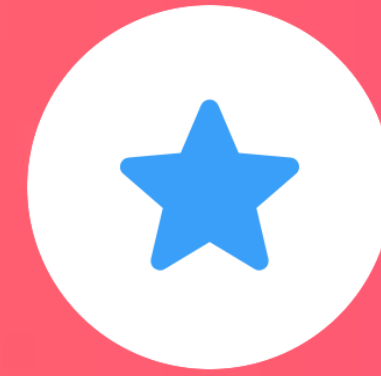

In a return to basics, a generation who did dating the old fashioned way will collide their ideas with technology to try and crack the cupid conundrum for their kids.

This brand-new series features young adults who are fed-up with the modern dating world and want to go back to basics with some help from those who know them best; their parents. By back to basics we mean their parents will completely take over their love lives and online presence by revamping their profiles alongside some blunt and honest advice with the aim of lining them up with a date. In an added twist they'll also have some old school solutions to their kids dating disasters from the world before apps. Who knew a small ad in the Farmers Journal had such erotic potential?!

This new series will air on RTÉ2 and stream on RTÉ Player at the prime time slot of 21:30 on Wednesdays from 18th September 2019.
